Review: What child wouldn't love learning all the things hands grow up to do with a fun, confident grandpa like Joseph's? But Joseph also learns that when grown hands are unfairly stopped, they must decide what to do. This beautiful book in an elementary library teaches character, history and love- and in a high school literature class, metonymy, too....

Description: Joseph's grandpa could do almost anything with his hands. He could play the piano, throw a curveball, and tie a triple bowline knot in three seconds flat. But in the 1950s and 60s, he could not bake bread at the Wonder Bread factory. Factory bosses said white people would not want to eat bread touched by the hands of the African Americans who worked...
